

pot o' gold

Antipodes' new Grapeseed Butter Cleanser, $45.90, is an oil-based organic cleanser packed with the powerful antioxidant "Vinanza Gold" (an extract from Marlborough's sauvignon blanc grapes). With a thick, buttery texture, the cleanser nourishes, cleanses, subtly exfoliates and delivers antioxidant benefits to leave you glowing.

tread carefully

The latest in comfortable, environmentally friendly footwear, EcoSNEAKS has released its second collection in New Zealand. The range is bright and stylish, and made entirely from sustainable materials such as recycled car tyres, silk, bamboo, unbleached hemp and organic cotton. Priced from $139.90. www.simpleshoes.com/nz

soy lovely

The new candles from Ecoya are 100 percent natural, clean-burning and biodegradable – they're made entirely from soy and palm wax, with pure cotton wicks. Each candle is hand-poured by master candlemakers. Available in a range of sizes and priced from $24.95. www.ecoya.com.au

sports star

After noticing there was little in the way of modern, natural-fibre sportswear, "urban yogi" Jyoti Morningstar launched ethical yoga-clothing label We'ar. The range (designed in Auckland and made in Bali) is crafted from 100 percent cotton or cotton-rich knits. Pictured is the Armadillo top, $85, available at www.we-ar.it

« to the maxi

"Good. Clean. Fun" – that's how Vectrix, manufacturer of the world's first two-wheeled, high-performance electric vehicle, describes its Maxi Scooter, $17,995. The battery takes two hours to fully charge from any electrical outlet and is capable of top speeds of 100km/h. This model is leading the trend in environmentally friendly urban commuting and, although pricey to buy, is estimated to cost just $50 a year to run. www.scooteremotion.co.nz